What is the Missouri Energy Program?

The Department of Natural Resources is Missouri's lead agency for stewardship of the state's natural resources and environmental quality. In February 1975, Natural Resources also was assigned responsibility for energy. Governor Joseph P. Teasdale, soon after taking office, made energy his first priority and requested the establishment of a 90-member Governor's Commission on Energy Conservation. The commission assisted the Natural Resources staff in considering programs and strategies to include in the Missouri State Energy Conservation Plan. Missouri's goal is to reduce energy consumption by at least five percent of projected energy use by 1980. To achieve this goal, the Missouri Energy Program will provide technical assistance and information on energy management to owners and managers of commercial and institutional buildings, businesses, and to homeowners.

Why Provide Energy Speakers?

There are two primary reasons for the Missouri Energy Program to furnish energy presentations to groups within the state. First, there are valuable information and technical services available to Missouri energy users. Distribution of information and notification of services through direct contact with Natural Resources representatives will facilitate energy conservation in Missouri. Second, general awareness of the energy situation in Missouri and the value of increasing energy efficiency will be fostered by discussions between Missourians and Missouri Energy Program personnel.

Who is Eligible?

Any Civic organization is eligible to schedule an Energy Program speaker provided the audience will consist of 25 or more persons.

What is the Speakers Program all About?

The Missouri Energy Program will make energy speakers available to civic organizations for luncheons, dinners, regular meetings, etc. The program normally requires 20 minutes; however, the length of the presentation can be adjusted to the needs of the civic group. The material covered will include an introduction to the Missouri Energy Program, services available to Missouri citizens, the energy situation in Missouri and the United States and specific cost effective energy conservation opportunities. A slide presentation is used to help provide the information.

When Will Speakers be Available?

Speakers will be available on or after June 1, 1979. Requests should be made at least two weeks in advance to avoid conflicts in scheduling.

How Do You Arrange for a Speaker?

It is anticipated that a number of requests for speakers will be received by the Missouri Energy Program. Staff size, however, limits the number of speaking engagements that can be scheduled. Complete and mail the Reply Card at your earliest possible convenience. By return mail you will receive confirmation and background information on the speaker and his presentation.
